Smooth Seas or Rough Sailing: How System Design

Can Make or Break the Future of EMS

Doug Wolfberg, Attorney

Page Wolfberg & Wirth EMS Law

As EMS is propelled into the era of evidence-based practices, tight budgets and limited reimbursement, it is more vital than ever that EMS systems be logically designed, efficient, patient-centered and highly collaborative. Yet too many EMS systems – both in California and nationally – adhere rigidly to system designs and practices that set up the system to fail short of expectations – or worse – teeter on the brink of system failure and collapse. In this thought-provoking session, nationally known EMS consultant and attorney Doug Wolfberg – who has worked on EMS system design issues in California and across the United States – will provide an unvarnished take on how EMS stakeholders hold the power to make or break their own futures with the system design choices they make today.

Ambulances Adrift: EMTALA, APOT and ED Diversions

Page Wolfberg & Wirth EMS Law

The EMS-hospital offload process can be fraught with peril – and has the potential to cause patient harm. EMS system inefficiency and endless frustration. ED overcrowding doesn't help the situation one bit. In this session, national EMS attorney Doug Wolfberg will provide an overview of the Federal EMTALA statute and regulations that govern this area of the law and clear up the fog that often permeates this issue. This session will also review how the measurement of Ambulance Patient Offload Times (APOT) and improving the management of Emergency Department diversion practices can help mitigate this perilous problem.

Shooting

Scott White, Paramedic

As the EMS world faces more mass shooting events, in the future, Scott White will provide an after action review and lessons learned from the largest mass shooting in modern US history. He will be discussing the initial response from the private ambulance providers perspective as well as collaboration between agencies. Scott will also discuss the recovery and mental health of caregivers. Finally, he will be looking into the future and what technology will do to assist EMS in such disaster situations.

9:45 am - 10:15 am

"Lying Low" with Exhibitors

Zoey Merrill, Deputy County Counsel assigned to San Joaquin County Emergency Medical Services Agency, will describe how a LEMSA can utilize the disciplinary process for prehospital personnel pursuant to Health and Safety Code Section 1798.200 to both protect the public and to ensure a fair process for accused personnel. What actions require discipline? What is the process that a LEMSA should take? How far can and should discipline go for different actions? How does a LEMSA find time for extended discipline actions? How does a LEMSA work with the EMSA on discipline? These are hard questions that should be considered by each LEMSA before they are faced with a discipline question.

Head to the Galley (lunch) & Networking

1:15 pm - 2:45 pm

Try a Different Tack – Research Panel

Moderators:

Karl Sporer, MD, Alameda EMS Agency

Nichole Bosson, MD, LA EMS Agency

Organized by EMDAC, each year rave reviews are received for a panel of different researchers in the field of EMS who present data, trials or published papers (keeping us abreast of the newest innovations and thinking backed by evidence-based foundations).

1) Status Epilepticus

Eran Guterman, MD, UCSF

Status Epilepticus is a neurologic emergency where treatment begins in the prehospital setting. EMS providers are essential in ensuring timely and appropriate treatment with a benzodiazepine. This presentation will discuss the diagnosis, treatment considerations and challenges of managing prehospital status epilepticus

2) Regional Cardiac Arrest Care

Bryn Mumma, MD, UC Davis

UC Davis Department of Emergency Medicine

Solano County EMS Medical Director

Within California, patients treated at STEMI centers following out-of-hospital cardiac arrest (OHCA) have better outcomes than those treated at non-STEMI centers. However, significant variation exists between STEMI in good neurologic recovery even after adjusting for patient and hospital characteristics. In this session, we will discuss this variation and possible contributors to it based on interviews and surveys conducted at STEMI centers within California.

3) Pediatric Disaster Triage Algorithm

Kathy Staats, MD, UCSF

In mass casualty incidents, pediatric patients are at higher risk of injury than adults, and have considerable rates of overall morbidity and mortality. In spite of their established vulnerability, few studies exist that evaluate the best tool to triage and treat pediatric patients during disasters. Dr. Staats will look at the available evidence, and discuss the overall take-aways from a recent review.

10:15 am - 11:15 am

US Border Patrol/BORSTAR

Luke Timerson, Paramedic

Luke Timerson, U.S. Border Patrol Agent, BORSTAR Operator, and paramedic based out of San Diego Sector (BORSTAR is the Border Patrol Search, Trauma, and Rescue Team) will present a "BORSTAR 101" introduction to who they are and what they do. He will talk about the mission, training, where they work (the terrain, the environment, as well as where they are deployed) and what kind of rescues and medical calls they see. And finally, he describes how BORSTAR fits into the recent "border crisis" discussion.

11:15 am - 12:15 am

"A Square Meal" & Final Visit with Exhibitors

12:15 pm - 2:30 pm

Why Things Go Right? Why Things Go Wrong?

Mr. Graham combines his vast knowledge in multiple areas with great humor with the goal of educating the attendee on how to better protect themselves, their employer, their profession, and their family. Those familiar with Mr. Graham know the exciting, information-filled seminar he delivers. The program will contain foundational information about the value of the discipline known as risk management.
